Las Alamas Joins Small Luxury Hotels of the World

Costalegre, Mexico, June 26, 2013: Las Alamas has become a member of Small Luxury Hotels of the World™, joining the prestigious collection of some of the world's finest small independent hotels.

Small Luxury Hotels of the World has a portfolio of 520 iconic luxury properties, located in more than 70 countries that are privately owned and dedicated to providing personalized service and unique experiences. The collection's properties can be found in top hotel destinations, lesser-known corners of the globe and everywhere in between. They range from a private island in the Seychelles to a converted 11th-century hilltop fortress in Italy – and now the chic private estate nestled within its own nature reserve of Las Alamas.

Throughout the year, Small Luxury Hotels of the World offers special rates and offers on stays at member properties. For the latest offers at Las Alamas, go to www.slh.com/.

A vacation at Las Alamas is a sublime experience: a gorgeous and pristine natural setting; balmy weather and warm water for swimming and water sports; delectable contemporary Mexican cuisine; an oceanfront Spa Pavilion for massages and treatments to the sound of the waves; exceptionally spacious and luxurious suite accommodations; miles of private beaches; spectacular sunsets; and numerous activities, from kayaking on bird lagoons and riverboat cruises to bird watching and hiking.

Nestled in its own 1,500-acre nature reserve on Mexico's Pacific coast, Las Alamas is the ultimate resort hideaway. Guests are immersed in a chic haven of gracious living in an extraordinarily beautiful natural environment of untouched white-sand beaches where sea turtles lay their eggs, lakes that are habitats for numerous species of birds, forest trails that are ideal for biking and hiking, and viewpoints with dramatic panoramas. The seven luxurious villas with 17 spacious suites were designed for indoor-outdoor living with shaded terraces, private Jacuzzis and views of the Pacific Ocean. The gourmet contemporary Mexican cuisine features freshly caught fish and herbs, vegetables and fruits from the resort's own organic gardens. Towering palms, flowing fountains, expansive lawns and a profusion of colorful blossoms paint the verdant garden setting. Activities abound, from tennis, horseback riding on the beach and surfing to a fully equipped gym, 60-foot pool and smart rooftop bar. The tropical paradise of Las Alamas – located on the Costalegre between Puerto Vallarta and Manzanillo – is a total escape from the world offering complete privacy and pampering by a caring staff that caters to your every need. A private airstrip allows guests to arrive by private plane.
