

Dossier

Mar 4

Las Alamandas, Mexico

Hotels

Virtuoso reports the 2025 travel trend of Mood Boarding, which leans into understanding how travelers want to feel while in a place and then designing the itinerary. For those looking to manifest serenity, relaxation and connection with nature, head to Two Michelin Star Mexican eco retreat Las Alamandas. Located along the Costalegre Coast, this secluded paradise feels like a personal beachfront estate, where whims are catered to by the minute...mood board the day away.

Spanning 2,000 private acres – yet occupying only 2% of its land – the resort features 18 vibrantly designed suites and villas; two restaurants with a rooftop bar; a pool; spa; and new game room. Throughout the grounds, guests enjoy four private beaches (available to reserve along with a personalized picnic); an organic orchard; miles of trails for hiking, biking, birding and horseback riding; tennis and pickleball courts; water sports and more.

Travelers can curate their dream escape at Las Alamandas by booking the Weekend Getaway special, starting at $632 USD in the suite of their choice.

INFO: Las Alamandas is much more than just a hotel; it's an isolated retreat, an oasis of luxury and nature that will transport you to another world. Located on the Costalegre of Jalisco, Mexico, this resort features 18 exclusive suites offering a unique and personalized experience.

Created by Isabel Goldsmith-Patiño, Las Alamandas spans 700 hectares of natural reserve, where you can enjoy pristine beaches, lush vegetation, and diverse wildlife. Each suite is designed to provide maximum comfort and privacy, with spacious layouts, private terraces, and panoramic views of the Pacific Ocean.

Las Alamandas offers a wide range of services and activities to make the most of your stay. Relax at the spa, where you can enjoy various treatments inspired by nature. Engage in water sports like snorkeling, kayaking, or paddleboarding, or simply sunbathe on one of the resort's private beaches. Food lovers will also find a true delight at Las Alamandas. The hotel's restaurant offers Mexican and international cuisine, using fresh, local ingredients. You can enjoy romantic dinners by the sea or sip a cocktail at the bar while watching the sunset.